MRS. SUN YAT-SEN DESCRIBES THRILLING ESCAPE FROM CHEN'S SOLDIERS

MINTING OF LIGHTWEIGHT COINS STILL PROCEEDING

Anhui Mint Reported To Be Producing 600,000 A Day

PLEDGE BROKEN

Protests Of Foreigners And Chinese Unheeded By Officials

That the whole question of the currency of China urgently demands treatment and that there are "few more glaring examples of the utter lack of organised government in China than this continued debasement of the national coinage by high officials for the sake of private gain" is the opinion of a competent foreign observer who has recently made a deep study of the whole matter. He cites as an example a recent incident at Wuhu.

"In the beginning of May, delegates from all parts of Anhui province met to examine into the financial state of the province," he writes. "They resolved that the only remedy was a reduction of military expenditure, the maximum sum available for which they decided to be $1,700,000 a year, including the profits of the Mint amounting to $300,000 per annum.

"The convention included representatives from such bodies as the Wuhu and Anking Chambers of Commerce who have been insistently and angrily demanding that the mint should be closed down forthwith, and yet not a voice was raised against the proposal which involved treating the profits of the Mint as a regular item of military revenue.

PROTEST FAILS

"At a subsequent meeting the question of the Anhui Mint was brought up for separate discussion. Several speakers inveighed against the enormous evils it was inflicting, but when a motion was brought forward demanding its immediate suppression, it was pointed out that this would conflict with the motion previously passed regarding reduction of military expenditure. The convention accordingly merely passed a resolution demanding that the mint should be closed after the Government had disbanded soldiers in accordance with the previous resolutions."

The writer points out that protests against the debasement of the minor currency have continually been addressed to the Chinese authorities by native commercial organisations all over the country, by foreign bodies to their diplomatic and consular officials, and by the ministers in Peking to the Chinese government, but apparently without the slightest effect.

"It would seem," he concludes "that it is only when public opinion in this country has become fully enlightened to the deplorable consequences of this method of inflicting deliberate injury on the trade of their country by rapacious and unpatriotic provincial officials anxious only to pay their useless soldiery, and has sufficiently organised itself to take the law into its own hands that any improvement can be looked for, as the Peking authorities appear to be powerless to put a stop to the abuse.

ASSURANCES FALSE

"The assurances given by the Central Government to the ministers in Peking in October last that the various mints had been instructed to cease the minting of copper coins and had actually carried out these instructions have proved false, for the instructions given by the currency bureau were openly flouted by certain of the mints and were subsequently so modified as to be of no effect. The Anhui Mint continues to flood the market with lightweight coins, the average output of which is said to be some 600,000 coins a day. The results are disastrous, especially for the poorer classes, who are paid in this currency."

DROUGHT IN JAPAN

(Reuter's Service)

Tokio, June 21.—The severest drought for the past twenty years is reported to be prevailing throughout Korea. The agricultural market continues to record steady appreciation in quotations and famine prices are expected unless rain falls shortly.

General Lu Yung-hsiang

"In came the General with a broad smile, radiating wholesale optimism about his work and friendliness towards the visitors. . . . He has indeed dropped the rigidity and self-consciousness which his personality appeared when I saw him in Shanghai three years ago"—Jabin Hsu, writing in yesterday's CHINA PRESS.

BRITISH ARM IN ANTICIPATION OF ATTACK BY SUN

Second Bombardment By Warships At Shameen Expected

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, June 27.—The Canton correspondent of the Hongkong Telegraph reports that the Consul-General has ordered all British subjects at Shameen to be armed in expectation of a second bombardment by Dr. Sun Yat-sen.

Peking, June 27.—The withdrawal of troops from the Shanhaikwan area is still proceeding. The Chihli leaders have decided not to occupy Shanhaikwan, but to evacuate their troops as rapidly as rolling-stock is available. Up to yesterday, 20 trains with Chihli soldiers had left the front, but a shortage of cars continues, as General Chang Tso-lin has not yet returned the rolling-stock held by him.

General Wang Chen-ping left the front for Tientsin yesterday. He has announced that he will be prepared to accept the Civil Governorship of Chihli after he has visited General Tsao Kun at Paotingfu.

The command of the Chihli troops at Shanhaikwan has been handed over to General Pang Shou-hsin, Commander of the 15th Division.

General Wang Chan-yuan and Mr. Sun Hsiao-liang were received by the President this morning and congratulated on their valuable service as intermediaries.

General Chao Heng-ti is reported to have informed the Government that he will cooperate in the disbandment of troops. Meanwhile, he is organising a police force to replace the Northern troops withdrawing from Yochow.

Peking, June 27.—Admiral Tu Hsi-kuei left for Paotingfu yesterday. He will proceed from Paotingfu to Shanghai to assume command of the naval forces there.

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, June 27.—At today's Cabinet meeting it was decided to hold a joint conference of all provinces, as originally advocated by General Tang Chi-yao of Yunnan, with regard to the unification of the country, and to despatch a certain M. P. of the Old Parliament, now in Shanghai, to Canton with the object of putting in effect the plan after obtaining General Chen Chiung-ming's approval.

U.S.S. HURON TO GO TO NAGASAKI TO MEET DENBY

Admiral Strauss Sails Friday Aboard Destroyer Alden

Although Admiral Joseph Strauss, commander of the American Asiatic fleet, will sail for Yokohama on Thursday aboard the U. S. Destroyer Alden to greet Secretary of the Navy Edwin Denby on the latter's arrival in Japan, the U. S. S. Huron, flagship of the Asiatic Fleet, will not leave Shanghai until July 10, and will then proceed to Nagasaki where it will meet the distinguished American naval party which is coming to the Far East on the U. S. Navy Transport Henderson.

Secretary of the Navy Denby and his party are due in Yokohama on July 2, and following a trip through Japan will arrive in Nagasaki July 14. They are due in Shanghai July 19. From here, Secretary Denby will go to Manila and then home by way of Guam and Honolulu.

The oil tanker Pecos, which came here to bring oil for the destroyer fleet and is now lying off Woosung has been given orders to sail for Cavite when it has fulfilled its duties here. The U. S. S. Albany, which has been at Chinwangtao, is expected here July 1 or 2. The Albany will sail for home by way of Guam and Honolulu, when the U. S. S. Asheville and the U. S. S Sacramento, which have already left America, arrive here to relieve the Albany and the Wilmington, which has already sailed for home by way of Europe.

Germany To Help Rebuild France

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, June 27.—The Premier, M. Poincare, and the Minister of Public Works, M. le Trocquer, yesterday considered the question of German participation in the construction of public works in France in accordance with the Treaty of Versailles.

The schemes include hydro-electric works, railways, the Channel Tunnel, ports and canals, at a total cost of 18,500,000,000 francs. Germany is to provide the labor and materials, the revenue from the works to be ear-marked for the reconstruction of devastated regions.

There is no doubt that the Reparations Commission will soon agree to a scheme.

CELEBRATION OF 4TH THIS YEAR TO BE BIGGEST EVER

Observance Of American National Holiday To Be Colorful

PROGRAM FRAMED

Outstanding Event Will Be Lawn Party At Race Course

The greatest celebration of the American national holiday that has ever been staged in China is to be held this year on July 4, for not only has the program for the day been enlarged greatly for the coming observance, including diverse and colorful features that will be of particular interest to the young people, but an added factor in this year's celebration is the presence in Shanghai of virtually the entire American Asiatic Fleet with more than three thousand sailors.

While all of the features of former programs are being retained this year one of the departures and one of the outstanding events of the day will be the American Community Lawn Party which is to be held on the grounds of the Shanghai Race Club and which will begin at 5 o'clock in the afternoon and continue through the evening until 11 o'clock.

Events of the program of the lawn party will be given in the Pari-mutuel section under the grand stand where there is ample space for dancing for serving of the basket supper that is being arranged.

TABLEAUX TO BE GIVEN

While the program to be given has not entirely been completed, according to present arrangements it will open with a series of tableaux illustrating different periods in the history of the United States. These will be given by American children. An exceptional exhibition of Chinese juggling also is to be provided. The arrival yesterday irom Japan of a large quantity of daylight fireworks gives assurance that this particular detail of the program will be carried out.

The basket supper is to be served at 6 o'clock and in this connection those arranging the lawn party are asking families to bring with them full supplies of food stuffs, having in mind bachelor folk who have forgotten the meaning of home cooked food.

Complete details of the program to be given in the evening have not been announced, but it is planned to give a moving picture program in the course of the merrymaking.

THE FLAG RAISING

The opening event of the day, also a new detail of the observance here, is to be a flag raising ceremony by American Boy Scouts in connection with which brief exercises will be held. American children in particular are invited to attend the flag raising at which Mr. E. S. Cunningham, Consul-General will read the Declaration of Independence and Lieutenant Warner, Flag Lieutenant of the United States Asiatic Fleet, will deliver an address on the Flag.

The period from 11:30 o'clock until 12:30 will be devoted to the official reception at the residence of Mr. Cunningham and after this the usual festivities, from 12:30 until 2:30, will take place at the American Club which will hold open house. In the afternoon the baseball game will be played by the Shanghai team and the Navy team highest in the race for the Rosenfeld Cup.

University of California tennis players are to stage a match at the Race Club grounds either against the Shanghai Recreation Club or against an all-Shanghai team about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Secretary M. B. Brown of the Lawn Tennis Association will announce the opponents of the collegians today. Aside from these events the sailors are to hold a track meet at Hongkew park in the morning.

Observance of the holiday at the Columbia Country Club is to begin on the night of July 3 at 10 o'clock when a dinner dance will be given followed by a buffet supper.

Art Colony Elects Male "Queen"

CARMEL-by-the-Sea, California's art and literary colony, near San Francisco, elected a man "Queen" of the May Day. "Evangeline" Mosher, as the "Queen" candidate, polled a lot of votes at five cents per vote, but finally Evan Mosher, as his name really is, abdicated in favor of a woman. In the picture with him are shown some of the girls who were to have been in his court: Constance Heron, Fan Murphy, Orleane Smith, Iris Alberto and Louise Prince.

Ill Winds Fail To Blow Mosquitoes To The Hovey

By Irene Corbally

The U.S.S. "Hovey" is such a quiet ship, despite its mascot equipment of six dogs and one monkey, that when they were handing out sections in the harbor for the ships to berth in, they looked the "Hovey" over and gave her the quietest one. She lies way up the river, the farthest up of any of the destroyers. The breezes that blow over from the Chinese Bund have so far to come that the mosquitoes can't stand the trip. As a result, the Hoveyites are able to sleep in peace without nets, which is more than their fellows down the river and the bitten-in-ten-thousand-places local victims "on the beach" can do.

The "Hovey's" position keeps her almost swept clean of the Chinese peddlers who have to be brushed off in bunches from the destroyers lying in fours opposite the French signal tower and up a bit further above the "Huron." The Chinese animal peddlers who have managed to get out to and aboard the "Hovey," however, have done a good business, for the menagerie has been enlarged since the squadron came to Shanghai by the addition of one small pup, scarcely two weeks old, a brown and white dog named in honor of the town, "Shanghai," and a diminutive monkey with a face that is ninety years old. The monkey has not been officially christened yet and won't be, probably, until he emerges from the semi-wild state in which he now is. Until he receives a name he is known by the title, Jocko, that is carried by almost every monkey in the world, that is carted from its native jungle to accompany an organ grinder on his daily rounds.

THE FLOATING ZOO

Jocko utters weird cries at intervals. When he isn't crying he is clasping and unclasping his hands like the Foxy Grandpa he resembles. He will stand for a lot of playful mauling from the five dogs aboard that are big enough to scrap.

When he thinks he has had enough, however, he shows his displeasure by putting up a stiff fight that ends, usually, in a canine rout.

The six dogs include "Subic," named for a town in the Philippines, and one of the strangest looking hounds in existence. He is an odd mixture of black and brown and has long thin legs that are of as much use to the baby pup as they are to him. The pup practises walking between them, around them, weaving in and out like a tourist examining the columns of an old ruin.

A tan near-Pekingese, two black pseudo chows, and a dog with white hair like sheep wool, complete the floating menagerie.

The "Hovey" is not so quiet that it doesn't get things. She is the only ship, besides the "Long," in the squadron, that has twin guns——four pairs of the packed four-inch type. These are mighty effective fighting weapons although they don't permit of loading with daring stuntsters whose exploits are recorded in the minds of those who have heard and read about them. There is, for instance, the story of the young fellow who had himself shot out of an eighteen-inch gun. More interesting, however, is the true story that happened eleven years ago of the young fellow who put this in reverse and swimming into the quickly opened and more quickly closed "gate" of a gun on a submarine just awash, made a simultaneous entry into the submarine with a large drink of water.

THEY SAW SCOTLAND

This ship, too, is the only one in the squadron, except the Chandler, that got a look at Scotland. It was a good look, however, for the few men aboard who were on her then united in declaring Scotland a great place.

Even the crew of the "Hovey" are quiet and bashful. Whether it was the double-header in baseball yesterday or just the lethargy of the summer heat, the decks were singularly deserted and the thick conversationalists, advertised by the men on other ships, either were "on watch," "on the beach," or just not present.

Down in the wardroom is a bronze bas-relief of the young officer for whom the "Hovey" was named. There is also a framed photograph of the bronze plaque that was erected in Memorial Hall in the Naval Academy at Annapolis by young Hovey's classmates, the graduates of 1907. Ensign Charles Emerson Hovey was killed September 24, 1911, in action against insurgent natives in the Philippines, while he was in command of a landing party from the U. S. S. "Pampanga."

S. S. Nanking Makes San Francisco June 24

Advices received yesterday by the local offices of the China Mail Steamship Company, Ltd., are to the effect that the S. S. Nanking, which left Shanghai on June 2 for San Francisco via Yokohama and Honolulu, arrived at its destination on Saturday morning, June 24. The Nanking is scheduled to sail from San Francisco July 5 on its return voyage and is due here on July 30.

HOME ATTACKED, GUARDS SLAUGHTERED, SHE FLEES THROUGH HAIL OF SHOTS

Dragged Out By Faithful Retainers, She Barely Escaped With Her Life, And Once, Fearing Capture, Begged Rescuers To Shoot Her

DISGUISED AS COUNTRY WOMAN

Fainted At End Of Her All Night Adventure And Awoke To Find Herself In Farmhouse; Finally Managed To Rejoin Husband On Warship

IN one of the most graphic, real-life stories of recent years, Mrs. Sun Yat-sen, wife of the President of the Canton Republic, has set down a record of the remarkable series of events which attended her recent escape from Canton when the forces of General Chen Chiung-ming overthrew her husband's bodyguard in the Capital. This statement, written by Mrs. Sun Yat-sen and given by her to the China Press yesterday a her home in Rue Moliere, French Concession, where she is now staying, appears below.

BY MRS. SUN YAT-SEN

A month ago my husband and I returned to Canton from the Kiangsi border, where our troops were being despatched to fight the Northern soldiers. The President's return was made necessary because after our troops had left Canton Chen Chiung-ming's army sneaked back into Canton and began pillaging in a systematic fashion, held up communications, intimidated the people, and otherwise made orderly government impossible.

When we arrived in Canton my husband tried to persuade Chen's troops to return to their original posts, but they would only make promise after promise without actually leaving. General Chen Ching-ming, who was in nominal retirement in Waichow, professed to be loyal, and was in daily communication with us. Only a week before the outbreak of the mutiny hesent a telegram offering congratulations on the series of victories our troops were gaining in Kiangsi. Although General Chen was not working with us we never expected he would actually revolt, as for years he was following Dr. Sun, and all his power and position were originally invested in him by my husband.

The pillaging of the troops brought things to an impossible pass and on June 8 my husband called a conference of the journalists and strove to use the force of public opinion to induce Chen's troops to leave the city and return to their posts to suppress the bandits. He could not very well use force as there were 25,000 soldiers under Chen's men in the city, while all his own troops were at the front, and all we had in the city was some five hundred soldiers. Moreover, any fighting would be sure to damage Canton, incurring frightful suffering to the inhabitants.

AWAKENED BY FIRING

On the night of June 15 I was in sound slumber when about 2 o'clock in the morning I was wakened by my husband, who asked me to hastily dress and leave with him. He had just received a telephone message that Chen's troops would attack our residence, and he wanted me to go with him to the warships, where he could command the city and quell any disturbance. I begged him to go on ahead alone, as my presence would only impede his movements in this critical hour, and in any case I felt myself to be personally safe.

He at last consented to go leaving behind him everyone of his fifty bodyguards, who were armed with quick firing rifles.

Half an hour after he left, about 2:30 in the morning, there was a burst of rifle fire directed at our residence, and pandemonium broke loose. Our residence, originally built by Lung Chi-kwang, was built on the brow of a hill and connected with the President's office at the foot of the hill by a long overhead wooden bridge, one third of a mile long, winding in serpentine curves over roofs and above streets. The mutinous soldiers had taken positions on the peak of the hill and to the left and right of us, and were pouring shots into our compound as furiously as they could, yelling "kill the president, kill him." Our little garrison of fifty men was reserving their fire as the darkness prevented them from seeing the enemy. All I could see was their tense figures hold-

EMPRESS SHIP SETS RECORD ON INITIAL VOYAGE

Canada Reaches Victoria Twelve Days After Leaving Woosung

Quite as anticipated, a new record for fast trans-Pacific travel was set by the Empress of Canada, newest of Empress liners, on its first voyage across the Pacific. According to a cable received yesterday by the local offices of the Canadian Pacific Steamships, Limited, the Canada, which cleared from Woosung at 8 p.m. on the 10th, arrived at Victoria, B. C. on June 22. The elapsed time from Shanghai to Victoria, including a call at Yokohama, was twelve days, constituting a new speed mark for Pacific liners.

The Empress of Japan, also of the Canadian Pacific Steamships, is due at Woosung at 3 a.m. Saturday from Hongkong and will sail for Vancouver via Japan ports at 2 p.m. Saturday. The tender with incoming passengers is expected at the Customs Jetty at 10 a.m. Saturday morning, and the outbound tender will leave at 11:30 a.m. Heavy baggage should be at the company's godown in Szechuen Road by 3 p.m. Friday, and hand baggage should be on board the tender by 11:15 a.m. Saturday.

The Empress of Asia, west-bound is due here from Vancouver at 5 p.m. Friday, and will leave for Hongkong via Manila at noon Saturday. The tender, Alexandra, with incoming passengers is expected at the Customs Jetty at 7:30 p.m. Friday and the outbound tender will leave the jetty at 9:30 a.m. Saturday. Hand baggage should be on aboard the tender by 9:15 a.m. Saturday.

Wirth To Take Over Rathenau's Duties

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, June 27.—It is officially announced that the Chancellor, Dr. Wirth, will act temporarily as Foreign Minister.

fire their automatic rifles at the ready.

With the break of dawn our men replied to the attackers with machine guns and rifles and held them at bay. Mountain guns were then trained on us and shells followed fast, one demolishing my bath room. With a splendid heroism our fifty men, one third already killed or wounded, kept up their courageous defence. My boy servant crept up to an exposed position and shot man after man of the enemy. Towards eight o'clock in the morning our ammunition was exhausted and our men reserved their last few rounds for the final assault.

It was now useless for me to remain any longer, and the commander of the guards at the President's office at the foot of the hill sent by my husband's aide de camp, Colonel George Bow, to ask me to go down, as my only hope of safety. My guards urged me to go down, declaring that they would stay behind to stop any pursuit. I have heard since that not one of those fifty brave men ever came out of the house alive.

Two of the men who had been my husband's personal body guard for many years were asked to take me down, along with Colonel Bow. Carrying a few things we four crawled on our hands and knees down the overhead bridge which was under heavy fire to prevent our escape. Bullets sang around us and one or two shots grazed my hair. We would creep on all fours, and when we came to those sections where the wooden fence was already shot away and we could be seen, we made a dash across followed by volleys of shots. After crossing one of these exposed sections Colonel Bow suddenly cried out and after a few stops collapsed in a pool of blood. A bullet had gone through both legs and severed an artery. I bade the two body guards carry him and after what seemed hours we arrived at the end of the bridge and entered the courtyard of the President's Yamen.

Half an hour later I saw a burst of flame and a whole section of the bridge crumpled, thus blocking all communication.

OFFICE ATTACKED

The office was heavily attacked from all sides, and what was worse, the defenders could not easily fire back as all around them were houses while our enemies were above us. I had my men carry the wounded colonel to a room and we made a rough bandage to stop his bleeding. I could not hold back my tears as I saw him laboring to breathe, but he kept comforting me, saying "someday our turn will come." A few hours later he muttered to me, "Please wire my wife and tell her I am safe."

From eight o'clock in the morning till about four in the afternoon we were in a living hell. Shots and shells kept flying in without ceasing. A few minutes after I left one room a shell made a direct hit and the whole roof came down. I was praying out loud all the while as I expected every minute to be killed. About four o'clock General Ngai Pongping, who had remained neutral, sent an officer to arrange terms of surrender. The first thing my men demanded was safe conduct for me, but the officer replied that he could not answer for my safety as the attacking troops were not his own and could not be controlled by even their own officers. Just at this moment the two outer gates gave away and the enemy poured in, our men throwing their empty rifles away. I was surrounded by gesticulating troops who pointed bayonets and revolvers at us and the two or three bundles we were carrying were wrestled away from us. These were hastily torn open and then ensued a free-for-all fight to rob the contents. In the scuffle, we ran into the midst of two streams of soldiers, one composing of our own fleeing troops and the other enemy troops still pouring into the courtyard bent on looking. Luckily I had Colonel Bow's straw hat and my husband's rain coat on, and in the confusion I escaped detection.

LOOTED THE TREASURY

Issuing from the main gates we were fired on from the left by soldiers who were leaving after they had looted the Treasury and the Customs, and men were falling on all sides of us. We therefore turned to the right and made for the country. They pursued us for two or three streets firing as they ran, while we fled zigzag across alleyways. Finally my legs could carry me no further and the two guards, who are expert boxers, each seized me by one shoulder and half dragged me along. I begged them to shoot me as I felt I could go no further. There were bodies all around us on the streets. Mingtang men or innocent inhabitants, men and women with their chests slashed open or limbs hacked away lying in puddles of blood. One strange sight I observed even in this flight. Two men were crouching on the roadway facing each other in a line, and as we raced past them I saw from their unseeing eyes that they were dead killed probably by the same shell. As we ran on a number of soldiers suddenly emerged from a side street and fired at us. My men whispered to me to lie down among the bodies, pretending to be dead, and the soldiers left us to seek loot. We then continued our flight, my men imploring me not to look at the bodies we were passing fearing that I might faint.

About half an hour later with pursuit dying down we ran into a country house and forced the door open to take refuge. The two old women in the house strove to drive us out as they feared we might involve them. Just then I fainted and when I came to, my loyal guards were pouring cold water on me and fanning me. The old women kept trying to force us out, one of them threatening to call her son who was in the army, to arrest us. One of my guards went out to look around, but just then there was a volley of shots, and the other guard hastily closed the door stating that the other was killed. It was not till three days afterward that I saw the other guard whom we believed to be killed.

ESCAPED IN DISGUISE

When the shooting died down disguised as a country woman I left with my guard disguised as a workman. A few streets on I picked up an old basket and some vegetables which I carried. After a walk that seemed never to end past looted houses and dead soldiers I arrived at the house of one of our men and spent the night there. Their house was searched by soldiers in the morning, as they were suspected, but I could move no further and would rather die than leave the house. Shots and shrieks were heard throughout the night, and then came the welcome boom of the guns from the warships which showed me that by a miracle my husband was still alive. On the next morning, still disguised as a peasant women, I succeeded in getting into Shameen where a launch took me to the Canton Christian College. On the way there we passed boatload after boatload of loot and young girls, many of refined appearance, who were being sent into captivity by Chen's soldiers. I later learned that two women who resembled me were captured by mistake and are still being kept in the military prison.

I had indeed left Canton none too soon as in the afternoon of that very day the house I took refuge in was again searched. In the evening of that day I saw my husband on a cruiser, we who never expected to see each other again. Upon my return to the Canton Christian College I saw brave old Dr. Wu Ting-fang, who smilingly tried to cheer me up. Still in disguise I left for Hongkong accompanied there by my husband's son coming to Shanghai by the Taiyo Maru.

Tokio, June 21.—The businessmen's mission which visited America and Europe recently, headed by Dr. Dan, has formed a permanent association, called the "1922 Society."

CAPT. THOMSON IS TAKEN INTO BRITISH COURT

Sea Captain Held For Forgery By U. S. Authorities Freed And Again Arrested

Questions concerning the nationality of Captain John Thomson, sea captain, who has been held by the American authorities since last December on a bond of $2,000 were disposed of yesterday in the court of U.S. Commissioner N. E. Lurton with the result that Captain Thomson was held to be a British subject and the charges of forgery against him have been transferred to the British courts.

When the charges were first made against Captain Thomson a question of the validity of his American citizenship was raised and Mr. F. J. Schuhl decided to take jurisdiction, ordering Captain Thomson held for trial in the United States Court for China and fixing the bail in the sum of $2,000.

Application was made yesterday to Mr. N. E. Lurton, who is the present United States Commissioner by Mr. J. B. Davies who informed the Court that proof had been received from New York that Captain Thomson is, in fact, a British subject, and the American Court therefore had no jurisdiction over him.

Commissioner Lurton ordered that a certified copy of Captain Thomson's British passport be retained for the records of the Court and he then ordered his release and the return to him of his bail, various papers and other possessions that had been held.

At the conclusion of this hearing Captain Thomson was arrested by Detective-Sergeant Douglas on a warrant issued from the British Police Court based on the original charges of forgery.

A hearing of the case was called in the afternoon before Magistrate G. W. King in the British Police Court at which Mr. S. H. Mackean appeared for the Crown and Ranald McDonald for the defense. On application of Mr. Mackean, who said he required time in which to produce certain essential evidence, the hearing was adjourned until 10:30 o'clock this morning, bail in the case being fixed at $500.

Foreigner Hammers Woman With Pistol, Robs Her And Flees

Held up, robbed and hammered three times over the head with a revolver when she screamed for help was the homecoming that greeted Mrs. Goldenburg, 65 Broadway when she returned from a moving picture show shortly after midnight yesterday. She described her assailant as a foreigner, a Russian, she believed, she told the police.

She was just entering her house when attacked. The footpad warned her not to make an outcry but she screamed and after striking her viciously, her assailant fled with her purse.

California Glee Club

The University of California Glee Club and Jazz band pleased another large audience at the Olympic theater last night, those who braved the disagreeable weather being rewarded by a particularly fine performance.

The university fun makers will sing and play at the Olympic again this evening, and tomorrow evening the Jazz band will head a fine program at the Astor summer pavilion. This latter promises to be one of the real treats of the visit to Shanghai of these talented singers and musicians.

Friday's program has not been arranged, although it is probable that the organisation will appear at the French club, negotiations for their appearance there being under way.

Last night's program was as follows:

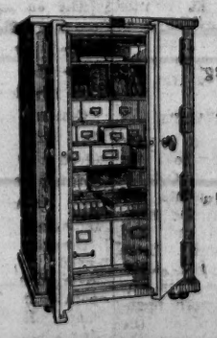
THE SAFE-CABINET

THE WORLD'S SAFEST SAFE



If fire should sweep through your office tonight, in what shape would you find your records tomorrow?

These records are the very foundation of your business. Without them it would come to a standstill.

Fire insurance companies pay only the amount of the actual loss sustained on the Day of the Fire. You are required to prove the amount of this actual loss by your records. If your records are destroyed you are helpless.

You should find out what fire hazards exist in and around your building and what you can do to protect yourself against them. Failure to do so may mean disaster.

The Safe-Cabinet is the only type of safe that brings its contents undamaged through the most severe fires.

Interesting Sidelights On The Outbreak At Canton

BY EDNA LEE BOOKER
(Staff Correspondent)

Canton, June 20.—Mr. Jay C. Huston, acting consul and United States vice consul at Canton, accompanied by Commander Baum of the U. S. Tracey today lodged a formal protest with Dr. Sun Yat-sen because in the shelling of Canton by his cruisers two United States business houses were hit and injured.

Dr. Sun Yat-sen opened fire upon Canton without giving any official warning and, as Canton is an unfortified city, this action was a violation of international law.

According to Mr. Huston, Dr. Sun expressed his regrets that American property had been injured and stated that he had fired only at the soldiers who were attacking him, and that the injuries must have been done by stray bullets.

The Mission Book Company and the Andersen Meyer Company complained to the American Consul of the shelling of their buildings.

All business has been supended in Canton. The streets are deserted, the shops closed and their doors and windows heavily barred. There has been heavy looting, according to all reports, although General Chen Chiungming has given orders that anyone caught looting will be killed. Today soldiers are walking through the streets carrying banners with the inscription "No Luting," but most of the damage has been accomplished. It is reported that Jade Street suffered especially.

SOLDIERS ON GUARD

The soldiers guard every street in Canton and the water front. While all foreigners have been ordered to keep out of the inner city, a few business men feeling that they must investigate conditions in their offices and put up their country's flag, ventured into the captured city.

Some of them were unmolested and had little trouble while others return telling exciting tales of escapes.

Mr. C. D. Ryan and Mr. F. S. Heinrick of the Liggett and Myers Company were returning from their offices on the second Bund in Canton where they went to investigate. The soldiers on guard in the street suddenly began firing cross-wise through the streets.

"We started to run," said Mr. Ryan, "but every door and window and alleyway on the Bund was closed.

"There was no place to run for shelter—and we with the few other pedestrians on the street, mostly Chinese, had a race of it with the bullets. Mr. Heinrick managed to get back to the Liggett and Myers office but I was running the wrong way. I was knocked down and the bullets flew over my head. Finally a foreign sailor passed me hot footing it down the street and I followed him. He turned down a narrow alley and wound through a number of streets. Finally by a back way—with which I was not familiar—he reached the bridge leading to the Shameen Island. Mr. Heinrick was still in danger for bullets were flying all around and he had to wait in the office for some time before the firing ceased.

"I haven't any idea what caused the sudden firing—a few minutes before everything was quiet and I couldn't see the disturbance."

One well known American business man in Shameen, who was called upon by an influential Chinese to assist him rescue his brother who was in the president's mansion, had a difficult time.

MANSION GUARDED

Carrying a letter from General Chen Chiung-ming giving permission to go through the city and search the president's mansion for the missing man, they started forth. Suddenly the soldiers opened fire down the street and five men near them dropped. The American and Chinese ran behind a building. After the firing ceased the Chinese called over a group of soldiers, showed them the letter and were permitted to go on in safety.

Upon reaching the President's mansion which was under heavy guard, they met more trouble but entered finally. They found the man for whom they were looking with four other prominent Chinese hiding in a dark store room.

The tourists here are having a hard time. The narrow streets lined with bazaars, unusally so crowded that you can't advance a yard without stumbling over a walking cafeteria, a fruit hawker or a bean curd brigade are as deserted as the streets of a Spanish city during siesta time.

The fascinating shops, usually welcoming the susceptable tourist who pays three prices for the wonderful crepes, carved ivory, beautifully polished jade, heavily embroidered shawls, and the many other tempting treasures in the picturesque bazaars of old Canton, are closed and barred.

The Canton guide, whose middle name is Squeeze, refuses to lead the tourists forth to bankruptcy in ordinary times—so there must be danger!

But cheer up—the tourists who arrived knowing little of Chinese warfare—are talking fluently about Chinese leaders of whom they knew nothing four days ago; are developing into enthusiastic fans for one side or the other; and just think what they'll have to talk about when they get "back home."

Japan Obliged To Import Oil

(Reuter's Service)

Tokio, June 21.—According to naval statistics the oil output in Akita and Echigo reached more than 450,000 tons per annum until the Russo-Japanese war. Since then the amount has dropped and the present limited output is largely used for industrial purposes. The Government is obliged to import oil. About 100,000 tons from America and 350,000 tons from the South Seas are imported annually.

T.G. RICE FALLS FROM GANG PLANK AND IS DROWNED

Efforts Of River Police To Recover Body Of Victim Are Unavailing

All efforts to recover the body of Mr. T. G. Rice, godown superintendent of Butterfield and Swire, who was drowned late Monday night had proved futile last night though the River Police were engaged through the day in dragging the Whangpoo.

Details of the exact manner in which Mr. Rice lost his life have not yet been disclosed, but it is known that he had gone aboard the steamer Wuchang to bid farewell to an officer of the ship shortly before it sailed. He was seen making his way to the gangplank and shortly afterwards a cry followed by a splash was heard. Those who rushed to the side of the ship and looked down into the dark water could see no trace of the victim and while aid was summoned immediately and a boat was launched the man could not be found.

Mr. Rice was about forty years of age and has been a resident of Shanghai for a considerable period. He is survived by a widow and three children. The search for the body is to be resumed today.

Obituary

PRINCE HIGASHI FUSHIMI
(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, June 27.—Prince Higashi-Fushimi died at 11:30 yesterday evening.

There was a rapid change for the worse in the Prince's condition and late last night he fell into a lethargy which was regarded as hopeless, according to the latest official bulletin. The Prince was brought back from his seaside villa at Hayama yesterday evening to his residence in Tokio. The official announcement of his death and of the arrangements for his funeral are expected to be issued later in the day.

Prince Yorihito Higashi-Fushimi, 17th son of the late Prince Kuniiye, was born on September 19, 1867. He studied in England and France from 1884 to 1890. He served with distinction in the Russo-Japanese war, being second in command of the cruiser Chitose, which sank the Russian cruiser, Novic, at Korsakof, Saghalien, in August 1904. In the following year Prince Higashi-Fushimi was promoted to the rank of Captain and reached the rank of Admiral in 1917.

The Prince has paid two official visits to England since 1890 in connection with exchanges of curtesy between the Emperor of Japan and King George. He was present with his consort at the Coronation of King George in 1911.

PRINCE OF MONACO
(Reuter's Service)

London, June 26.—The death is announced of the Prince of Monaco at a nursing-home in Paris.

Albert Honore Charles, Prince of Monaco, was born in Paris in 1848 and succeeded his father, Charles III, in the principality in 1889. He is succeeded by his only son, Prince Louis, who is now 52 years of age.

FORMER GERMAN LINER "KLEIST" AWARDED TO N.Y.K.

9,000-Ton Passenger Vessel To Be Put On Run To Australia

Announcement has just been made by the N.Y.K. that the former German liner, the s.s. Kleist, which was awarded to Japan under the terms of the reparations agreement at Paris, will be put on the N.Y.K. Australian service.

The Yoshino Maru was built in 1906 at the F. Schichan Shipbuilding Yards at Danzig, and was used by the Norddeutsche Lloyd on its Far Eastern service before the War. The vessel is 480 ft., 6 ins. long, and has a 57-foot beam and a depth of 39 feet. Its gross tonnage is 9,003, and its speed 16 knots. Accommodations are provided for 101 first class passengers, 88 second class, and 72 third class.

The Yoshino Maru is fitted with twinscrews, and is driven by quadruple expansion engines. The steamer embodies all the developments and facilities for safety and comfort that had been attained in that golden age of German shipbuilding wherein she was constructed. The first class accommodation is arranged amidships on the three decks, namely, the boat deck, promenade deck and upper deck. The cabins are all roomy and thoroughly fitted with every possible feature that may contribute to the comfort and satisfaction of passengers. The sofa in the first class three-berthed cabin is convertible into a broad spring bed, which can be compared favorably with an ordinary bed.

The children's nursery and the gymnasium are amidships on the boat deck. The latter is replete with every ingenious mechanical device for providing suitable exercise. The social hall is at the fore part of the promenade deck, and the smoking room occupies the after part. The interior decoration of these rooms is remarkably simple, but neat in the highest degree, thus creating a quiet and restful atmosphere all around. Particular attention has been given to the lighting and ventilation. The dining saloon is on the upper deck forward. The fourteen rectangular windows on the sides ensure an abundant circulation of fresh air—a source of great comfort for passengers, when the vessel is passing through the tropical regions.

The second class cabins consist of those containing 2, 3 or 4 berths. Each cabin is spacious, well lighted and ventilated. The inside ones are designed and constructed in the so-called "tandem" style, so that they are as light and airy as the outside cabins. On the poop deck there is the smoking room and the ladies' lounge. The dining room is located under the poop deck. These public rooms are nicely and neatly furnished and decorated.

The third class quarters are on the 'tween deck' forward, and are clean, light and well ventilated. The main room is divided into sectional compartments, each compartment accommodating 2, 4 or 6 persons. Each berth is provided with a straw mattress and a pillow decidedly a great improvement on the "open bunk."

LONDON SAD AT FUNERAL RITES OF GEN. WILSON

Great Throngs Line City Streets, Despite Rain

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 26.—Not since Lord Kitchener's death has the country been so stirred by the passing of a national figure as it has by Sir Henry Wilson's assassination. This was indicated today by the silent crowds lining the streets in drizzling rain throughout the long route from Eaton Place to St. Paul's Cathedral. The people, who assembled early, showed a melancholy interest in the delivery of magnificent wreaths, some of them enormous, which afterwards were arranged on two huge floral cars, and also in the arrival of the dignitaries.

When the procession started at 11:15 a.m. the crowds uncovered in spite of the rain. Three thousand troops fell into line with remarkable precision.

Field-Marshals Lord Grenfell, Lord Methuen, Earl French, Earl Haig, and Sir W. R. Robertson, Generals, Sir J. Wilcocks, A. F. Gatlief Sir C. C. Monro, Sir C. F. N. Macready, and Sir A. S. Cobbe, Admiral Earl Beatty and Air-Marshal Sir H. M. Trenchard were the pall-bearers.

Marshal Foch was not a pall-bearer but walked behind the Duke of Connaught. Then came Lady Wilson and her mother-in-law in the only carriage in the procession, and after them the members of the Army Council, the Commissioners of the Admiralty, representatives of the Dominions and Colonies, and Foreign Officers.

Sir Henry Wilson's charger was led behind the gun-carriage, bearing the coffin, covered with the Union Jack. The scene was most imposing at Ludgate Hill where the road was lined by the Guards, with reversed arms, between whom walked statesmen and soldiers following the remains to their last resting place near the tombs of Nelson, Wellington, Roberts and Wolseley.

The procession arrived at St. Pauls at 12:20. The scene inside the Cathedral was sombre, the glittering uniforms being the sole relief in the black-garbed mass of humanity. Though 1500 person were admitted, there were no tickets of admission.

The congregation included many detectives, who were seated near the Cabinet Ministers and other distinguished personages.

Canon Alexander and the Bishop of London officiated at the simple service.

The old Bailey and the Stock Exchange were closed during the ceremony.

McTYEIRE SCHOOL HAS GRADUATING EXERCISES TODAY

Preceding the graduating exercises of the McTyeire School which will take place this afternoon the school's annual concert was given last night. CLAY PIGEON SHOOTING

Sunday's meet of the Shanghai Clay Pigeon club held under poor weather conditions found the California Cup shot for under novel conditions going to Mr. Hexamer, while the second competition of the afternoon between teams of four to a side was won by that captained by Mr. Read with the advantage of one bird only. Mr. Jensen captured the third sweep.

CALIFORNIA COLLEGIANS DEFEAT FLEET NINE IN AN ALMOST PERFECT GAME, 2-0

Brilliant Pitching By Mitchell And Hopkins, And Wonderful Fielding Decide Game

The California Collegians, with Harry Kingman, an old time U. of C. man in their lineup, beat the selected all-American Fleet nine yesterday by a score of 2-0 in what was certainly the best game of baseball seen in this port this year. The game went scoreless until the ninth. Kingman made the win possible by his heavy hitting.

The Fleet team was held to a shut-out by the wonderful twirling of Mitchell for the visitors. The Californian started a trifle off control, but he soon settled to his game and held the best hitters of the Asiatic fleet to three scattered and useless singles. Hopkins hurling for the sailors worked his usual brilliant game but three bunched hits for six bases in the ninth beat him.

The game was a clean one, in spite of the three errors charged up against California players. The misplays were of no import to the scoring. Straight baseball alone counted. It was a duel between the two pitchers and the eighteen batters, with honors always with the winners. There were many bad breaks against them, but their pitching and their batting told for Capt. McHenry's side.

Mitchell started the game by fanning the entire sailor team. He totalled seven strikeouts for the game, and he kept other hits within easy reach of his men. There were bad moments for both sides, but sterling defense, and sterling pitching carried both twirlers through.

In the very last inning, when Petrasek, pinch hitting for Lydon, drove a flying drive into deep center, the stands were up on their feet in expectation of a well earned homer with the possibility of a batting rally and a tied score. But Bowen tore after the ball, and with a wonderful one handed catch retired the side and ended the game in his own team's favor. Just such play characterised the whole game.

The Californians had the worst of the breaks and of several close decisions by the umpires, so that their win was all the more remarkable, Kingman tripled in the first frame and, through bad coaching was sent home from third as he was circling the bags. He was caught out between base. McHenry was called out on strikes in the second when he was standing four or five feet out of the batters' box, getting himself set for the final swing. Several times the visitors had two or more men on base only to have them die.

The ninth was the big and only inning in which the game was possible to win or lose. Kingman started with his second triple of the game, a beautiful drive through first base well into right field. T. Bill followed with a nice double to deep left, scoring Kingman. A strike out and an infield out put Bill on third. Bowen's single through short brought in the second run.

The Fleet never seriously threatened the Californians. Three scattered hits not accompanied by opposing errors or walks or other battery errors do not usually count for a win. Callery did the bulk of the sailors batting with two safeties in three times at bat. Scymanski connected with a slow one for a pop-up over shortstop for the third hit of the navy nine.

Shanghai,	1	1	500
12th Div'n,	1	1	500
38th Div'n,	0	1	000
Buffalo,	0	1	000

The flagship Huron baseball nine went up a notch in the local cup league yesterday afternoon when Big John Draper shut out the 37th Destroyer Division nine for a score of 1-0. The win puts the flagship tied for first position with the 37th, at 2 games won and one lost, for a percentage of 666. Shanghai still stands tied for next position with the 12th Division team at one game won and one lost, though when Shanghai and the 12th meet this afternoon there is certain to be a change for the place.

Draper had the 37th men at his mercy yesterday. For the first five innings only three men faced his pitching. In the sixth and seventh only did the destroyer men have four men at bat. Ward, for the 37th, also worked well, allowing but three hits, but with his team behind him failing with the stick-work, his good hurling went for nothing.

The score by innings—

Huron,

MARINES BEAT 15TH INFANTRY IN 13TH INNING

The Peking Marines beat the Fifteenth Infantry Saturday afternoon in the 13th inning at Tientsin by a score of 3-2. Barring one or two isolated spots both teams played good baseball. It was practically a pitchers' duel, Hutchinson for the 15th striking out 12 and McClair for the Marines fanning 10. Both pitchers allowed three hits apiece.

The doughboys scored once in the second, Moore getting around to the plate on a error by the first baseman, a safety by Riordan, another bingle by Hinckley and McKeown's sacrifice. They again tallied one in the 5th inning, Hutchinson drawing a walk and advancing the circuit on Rattan's base on balls and Catcher Olson's heave to third which glanced off the runner into centerfield. The ball rolled out to the fielder and Hutchinson, about to steal third, came home on a wild throw to the pan.

KELLEY SCORES

The Marines put two across in the first half of the 5th in the following mix-up: Kelley hit safely to right. Crowder sacrificed, advancing the runner to 2nd. Hutchinson threw to second to catch Kelley laying too far off and the ball bounced off the baseman's arm into centerfield. Kelly raced round third and made the plate on a weak throw in from centerfield. McClair reached first on Riordan's fumble Donovan sacrificed advancing McClair, who came home on Hildebrand's safe hit.

Thirteen innings is one of the longest affrays ever staged on the Tientsin diamond, the game lasting two and three quarter hours.

WILHOIT TELLS 'EM

An unusual decision was given in the 8th when Knauf clouted a long fly to right field, where the ball, hitting fair, bounded over a fence in the American Tennis Courts. Knauf ran the circuit, but after a long harangue Umpire Wilhoit allowed only two bases. The Marines were disinclined to resume but Wilhoit looked sternly at a dollar watch and the devil dogs got their teeth in the game again.

Hinckley, catching for the soldiers, played one of the best games this year. He stopped everything that Hutchinson let loose and, in spite of a nasty knock on the right hand, stuck to the game to the end.

The Marines' winning tally came in the first half of the 13th. Gorman drew a base on balls. Knauf fanned. Gorman stole second, going to third on a throw from the plate that drew Madge off the sack, the ball carrying on to the outfield. Thomas cracked one at the pitcher, Gorman scoring on the play.

Ranking with some of the best professional baseball, the Marine outfield pulled down some of the classiest catches seen in a long while. Gorman, Kelley and Crowder were as safe as three large wells. Gorman grabbed three of Madge's long liners and one each from Riordan and Hinckley.

CALIFORNIA TENNIS MEN TO ARRIVE TODAY; SHOULD SHOW LOCAL PLAYERS SOME SPEED

Bates And Wilson, Two Of Team, Rank High In American Tennis

University of California tennis men who have been booked against the best local net men in a week's series of matches are expected to arrive here today from Japan where they have met and beaten the best of the Island Kingdom. The players number four, Wally Bates, Conrad, Wilson and Jensen.

The matches scheduled here for the Californians, against the Recs, the Cricket Club, the Country Club, the French Club, and the Rest of Shanghai will undoubtedly provide the best tennis ever seen in this port.

Bates is ranked in America as the 45th player out of the only 150 best net men mentioned in American records. He ranks as seventh best in the big state of California, which has its best three players, Wm. M. Johnston, Willis E. Davis and Clarence Griffin ranked among America's ten best.

Wilson, however, is the flash and the youthful star of the group. The player has often been ranked by tennis experts as worthy of listing among America's best but because of illness has never been able to play through the long competitions required for national rating. Conrad and Jensen are almost of the same class and are fully confident of meeting any player in the Far-East on even or better terms.

University of California tennis players will play the first of six matches here Friday afternoon, the intercollegiate champions opposing the Shanghai Cricket Club at the Cricket Club field. On Saturday the visitors will play against an All-Shanghai team at the French Club.

They will have an opportunity to practice today so that they may become accustomed to the fast grass courts here. Then Friday they play against the Cricket Club.

Secretary M. B. Brown of the Lawn Tennis Association has not announced a match for Sunday and the entire schedule is tentative because of the threatening weather. On Monday the Californians will play the British Country Club. Tuesday Recreation Club players will oppose the visitors and the second match against the All-Shanghai will be staged probably at the Country Club on Wednesday. French Club representatives will be sent against the varsity men on Thursday, the sixth.

The match at the Recreation Club will probably follow the July Fourth baseball game at the Race Course, thus allowing a big crowd to watch the college champs.

Exchange Fluctuations
Asia Banking Corporation

June 27, 1922

Spot and forward bar silver were each unchanged in London yesterday.

The New York price declined to 70 cents, and the London-New York cross rate improved to 440½.

The only changes in our official quotations here today were a rise in the Gold Dollar rate to 78, in the Yen rate to 62, and in the Franc rate to 935.

Our market opened this morning a shade easier than it closed last night, but in the course of the day became firm.

At the opening there were buyers of Sterling at 3-7 for August, and of Gold Dollars at 79.

However, later on there were good sellers at these quotations, and late in the afternoon speculators became quiet strong sellers, selling a fair amount of Sterling for July-August at 3-7⅛, and Gold dollars for the same deliveries at 79¼.

Banks at all times were buyers at these rates, and the market closed a shade easier with sellers of Sterling at 3s. 7⅛d. for July-August, and of Gold Dollars at 79⅛.

India again bought a small amount of silver in London yesterday, and the market there is reported as steady.

The New York market is also steadier, there being buyers at the official quotation.

Silk Shipments

Messrs. Messageries Maritimes announce the list of silk shipped from Shanghai to the undermentioned ports per steamer Azay le Rideau on June 24:

Haiphong, 10 bales raw silk.
Portsaid, 45 bales raw silk.
Zurich, 30 bales raw silk.
Milan, 40 bales raw silk.
St. Chamond, 5 bales raw silk.
Avignon, 15 bales wild silk.
Marseilles, 35 bales raw and 561 bales waste silk.
Marseilles option, 100 bales raw silk.
Lyons, 718 bales raw and 18 wild silk.

Hold Architects Were Negligent In Freeman Suit

Judgment was awarded by Judge Peter Grain in the British Supreme Court yesterday in favor of Mrs. L. E. B. Freeman in the suit for Taels 6,000 damages which she had brought against Messrs. Cumine and Milne, architects, for loss caused by their alleged negligence in building a house in Route Say Zoong.

In his ruling, Judge Grain held that the plaintiff had made out a clear case against the defendants for negligence.

"I find that it was through the defendants' negligence that the building encroached on the public road, that they made some of the rooms smaller than agreed by the plans, that they have not used the size bricks that were agreed. I make no finding as to the mortar used.

"The result of their negligence was that the building was not finished at the time agreed and consequently there is a loss of rent to plaintiff: Also if the original plans as regards the size of rooms are to be adhered to it may necessitate pulling down all parts of the building and re-erecting.

"As regards the counter-claim of the defendants for architects' fees on the building the law is perfectly clear on this point, that failure to build through lack of skill in supervision or negligence as architects in carrying out their duties and in supervising and directing the builders imposes upon them the forfeiture of their fees under the contract. (Bracey vs. Carter A. and E. and E. 373, Appleby and Meyers 1876 and Chandlers and Goldthorpe IQB 624).

"Therefore, having already found that the defendants are negligent, in this case I must find against them on the counter-claim. There will be judgment for the plaintiff on the claim and judgment for the plaintiff on the counter-claim with costs. I am not going to fix the amount of damages at the present moment, as I have not sufficient evidence before me to show what rent the premises if built according to plan would realise at the present time, nor have I got sufficient evidence before me of what it is necessary to do to the building to re-instate it as desired and agreed by the plans, nor can I say on the evidence before me what loss has been sustained by the use of the smaller-sized bricks. These are matters which will have to be referred to some expert for the purpose of ascertaining values."

Judge Peter Grain reviewed at length the evidence given in case. The plaintiff entered into negotiations with Messrs. Cumine and Milne desiring that a building containing two flats at the respective rents of Tls. 125 a month should be built on their land, which was situated in the French Concession at the corner of Route Say Zoong and Avenue Haig.

Tenders for the building contract were invited. Those sent by the contractors were deemed too high by the plaintiff and it was agreed that the plaintiff should endeavor to obtain lower tenders. Subsequently the plaintiff sent a contractor, Zung Chong, to the architects. His tender was accepted by both parties. Through the agency of the architects an agreement and specification was drawn up and signed by the plaintiff and Zung Chong, the contractor. This agreement and specification was entitled "Agreement and Specification, Cumine and Milne, Shanghai, architects, surveyors and civil engineers."

The agreement stated that contractor was "to carry on the work under the direction and to the specification of Cumine and Milne," that he was to construct according to drawing and plans prepared by the architects. The specification proved that "all bricks should be of Sing Foong kiln of standard size 5 by 10 by 2 inches, of even color sand, well-burn," and "the mortar to be composed of one part lime to three parts river sand."

Coming to the question of how far the architects were responsible for the encroachment, His Lordship referred to the evidence given by Mr. Spence and Mr. Moorhead, architects. Mr. Spence was called and he said what was customary as regards architects commencing to build on land in Shanghai. Mr. Spence in his evidence said: "Sometime we are given title deeds and an official plan. If we do not get them we should make a survey of the site. It is a normal practice to make out the frontage. I should inquire at the French Council if widening schemes had lately or were likely to take place and generally as to the frontage. I should survey the land. The French Council will furnish one with plans of new sites showing individual boundary stones. I should insist on the French Council delineating the road before starting the foundations."

Mr. Moorhead, another architect, called by the defence, said: "I should most certainly insist on title deeds and official plans. I should go to the site and should require some competent person to point out the boundaries. If I was satisfied that he knew what he was talking about when he pointed out the boundary stones I should be satisfied. I should start building on the road stones. I had no difficulty in this case in finding the road stones when I went to see the site. In case of not being able to survey all the road boundaries I should on my own responsibility go to the French Council. As an architect I consider that it would be my duty to see that the contractor build within the road line and within the boundary stones."

The Judge held that in this case there was no doubt that there was an encroachment on the road way, and one corner of the building on the north-east was outside one of the French Council road boundary stones.

The Judge added: The defendants merely caused measurements to be made from the west fence to the east fence. It is quite clear from the Council official, Freeman, and Zung Chong, the contractor, and Zing Tai, the foreman, that there were French Municipal stones on the road front. Mr. Milne says he could have got the frontage by measuring from stone to stone. They did not get plans from the French Municipal Council although the French official states that architects have only to make a request and they will get a plan showing the road frontage. The defendants were satisfied by sending some assistant who could not speak French and were satisfied with his statement that he could not get the plans. They certainly got a permit from the French Municipal Council to build and all they have put before the Council was a plan of the building showing no roads nor frontage and giving no indication on which part of the site they were going to place their building. Copies of the same plan were given to the contractor, merely a working man (Chinese). There was not a vestige of any road or area of site to guide him. And the architects appear to have considered that all the instructions necessary to be given to this uneducated Chinaman was "build up to the road," no road being shown at all on the plan.

It is quite obvious that the defendants were negligent to a very considerable degree. There is no doubt the architects undertook to supervise the building to be built by the contractor upon their own plans.

So much so that the contractor was bound by his agreement with the owners of the land not to employ any other architects and was bound down to the specifications arranged and set out in Cumine and Milne's offices and appearing under the name of the firm of Cumine and Milne on the cover.

In one letter Cumine and Milne say: "Your contractor whom you have yourself appointed outside of our office. This is quite incorrect. It is true the Freemans introduced the contractor as a man who had made a tender lower than some of the other tenders. He was brought to Cumine and Milne's office. Defendants accept him and he becomes the contractor who agrees to build under Cumine and Milne's supervision, direction and on their plans.

The specification mentions that all bricks used shall be of Sin Foong kiln of standard size 5 by 10 by 2 inches. It is admitted that these bricks were not used but similar ones. Defendants say that these sized bricks could not be got and it was customary accept similar bricks instead. If that is so, why take the trouble to definitely put in the size 5 by 10 by 2 inches? Why not leave it at standard size?

According to the plans some of the walls are to be 15 inches size. Mr. Moorhead states that a 15 inch. thick wall is now given to mean a brick and a half thickness. If the specified sized brick 5 by 10 by 2 had been used on this building the walls would have been 15 inches plus mortar, but it appears the walls built are only 14 inches including mortar.

Judge Peter Grain said he wished the parties would come to an agreement. The plaintiff should not be too grasping. It might be that having obtained damages for rent and a certain amount for negligence the plaintiff may be satisfied to go on building the house. That might be the best thing for the parties to do. He had desired to give this bit of advice to both parties to see whether they could not by mutual arrangement come to some settlement, or if not to get some expert to see whether it was necessary to pull down these premises.

Mr. Lanley-Smith, for the plaintiff, remarked that he should be very pleased to go on his Lordship's instructions and directions in conjunction with Mr. Seddon, counsel for the defendants.

His Lordship: It may be that you cannot come to some mutual arrangement. Just place before me all the evidence that you rely upon and I can arrange the damages myself.

GOOD WHEAT CROP

(China Press Service)

Suchien, Kiangsu, June 21.—A good wheat crop has been harvested in this section of country, under favorable weather conditions. No rain fell until after the wheat had been threshed. Now two very good rains have fallen so there is a good prospect for Autumn crops.

During harvest, the price of wheat was reduced by about one half, but started to rise again on account of the continued drought. Since the rains, the price has fallen again.

Kiangsi General Demands Money For Controlling Troops

(Independent News Service)

Hankow, June 24.—General Tsai Chen-hsun, Commander of northern reinforcements to Kiangsi, who succeeded ex-Tuchun Chen Kuang-yuan under the title of Commissioner of Military Affairs of Kiangsi, is in charge of the situation at Nanchang and is making efforts to keep the broken troops of the former Tuchun out of Nanchang.

But all reparation measures cost money, and General Tsai is following the procedure of the late Tuchun, presenting his difficulties to various financial institutions of Nanchang. General Tsai says his predecessors left the government treasury empty, and if peace is to be maintained, the money must come from other sources.

For keeping the former Tuchun's troops well under control, it is estimated that $300,000 is needed immediately. The Kiangsi Banking Corporation has consented to loan the Commander $100,000, while the Salt Guild and the Money Brokers Guild have jointly pledged a loan of another $100,000.

For the remaining $100,000, the authorities are turning to the Bank of China. The latter bank is greatly embarrassed, because the Nanchang and Kian branches of the Bank have failed to collect loans of $70,000 and $30,000 which they made to the former Tuchun.

World To Use 21,000,000 Bales Of Cotton This Year

(Foreign Press Service)

Washington, June 25.—The Department of Commerce has just completed a survey of the world cotton situation, which shows that 21,000,000 bales of cotton will be consumed during the year ending July 31, 1922, thus reaching the pre-war level for the first time in five years. The estimated consumption is approximately 6,000,000 bales more than was produced for the crop year.

"Cotton consumption, which reached the high point of 22,000,000 bales in 1913-1914, has shown a steady decline to 18,500,000 bales in 1917-1918 and to 17,000,000 in 1920-1921," says the report of the survey.

"There was also a reduction of world production during this period, although not quite so great as the decrease in consumption. Hence, an accumulation of stocks regulating in the enormous carry-over on August 31, 1922, of 14,000,000 bales. Many feared that a new world consumption level had been found. Some two or three million bales lower than the pre-war level of approximately 21,000,000 bales per annum.

"The low consumption of less than 17,000,000 bales for 1920-21 assumed this view, a matter of great concern to cotton growers in view of the enormous carry-over and the knowledge that a single good cotton year would make what looked like a bad situation worse. During the past eight months cotton consumption has shown a strong upturn, reaching at this time 14,400,000 bales and a prospective consumption of 21,000,000 bales by the end of the cotton year. This would leave a carry-over of less than 17,000,000 bales, thus getting cotton consumption and carry-over back to a pre-war basis.

"The important matters to watch for the next few months will be the rate of consumption, to see whether the world has actually returned to a 21,000,000 bales consumption and prospective production. The world crop has averaged only 18,000,000 bales for the last five years, the biggest in this period bebing 20,000,000 in 1920. Unfavorable weather and the boll-weevil have been the principal factors in the low crop.

"The general conclusion to be drawn from this survey is that pre-war consumption has again been attained after a five-year period of low consumption, that the world carry-over will return to normal by August 1, 1922. And the outstanding point of interest now is the degree to which world production will return to the pre-war level or whether it will continue on the basis of the past five years' average of 18,000,000 bales. Much depends on weather conditions and the extent to which the boll weevil proves to be a limiting factor. The indications at the present moment are a 21,000,000 bales consumption although more time is required to determine whether this appearance is established or is only a temporary advance in demand."

Chefoo Protests Proposed Saloon

(China Press Correspondence)

Chefoo, June 22.—Strong disapproval over the granting of a permit to open a moving picture theater with beer saloon attached by two British subjects is being voiced today by Chefoo residents. The British Consul, with the reported approval or sanction of the American Consul, granted the permit. Protests have already been filed with the International Committee, and if they do no good the matter will be taken up with the Diplomatic Body at Peking.

Two years ago British subjects living here were loud in their condemnation of the actions of American sailors during the summer stay of the Asiatic fleet for frequenting the large number of grog shops and brothels. Conditions became so bad that the International Committee approached the Consular Body and Taoxin with the result that all such undesirable places were closed.

Last year, with all such places closed and the Navy Y. M. C. A. established so that they could cater to the amusement and recreation of the American sailors Chefoo was transformed. The Navy 'Y' opened a moving picture theater, arranged boxing tournaments, concerts, and other sports and otherwise looked after the welfare of the "gobs" ashore. It had been expected that a like program would be in force this year.

A few days ago, however, it was learned that the two British subjects had received a permit to open a cinema and beer saloon. The news came as a shock because no public meeting had been called to learn the wishes of the residents here. The permit is said to be for two weeks only and the operators are said to have given express guarantees that the place would be run decently. A majority of the residents are said to oppose the opening nevertheless, and Chinese are protesting because foreigners are being allowed to do something denied Chinese.

Two petitions of protest have been sent to the International Committee by Chefoo residents. The first contained approximately one hundred names of foreigners, and the second was signed by the principal American and British hongs. The Chinese are also preparing a petition.

Gov. Small Freed On Fraud Charge

(China Press Service)

Waukegan, Ill. June 25.—Governor Len Small of Illinois was acquitted by a jury in the Lake County Circuit court today after the jury had deliberated for one hour and thirty five minutes. Cheers from hundreds of the Governor's friends greeted the announcement of the 'Not Guilty' verdict.

Governor Small's acquittal ends one of the most bitter political fights that has ever occurred in the state. He was charged with depositing state funds in the Grant Park State Bank, of which he is a director, when he was State Treasurer, and converting the interest on the money to his own use.

Governor Small is a political follower of Mayor William Hale ('Big Bill') Thompson of Chicago, and asserted that the charges were brought against him by his political enemies in an attempt to discredit his administration as Governor. Attorney-General Brundage, who prosecuted the charges against the Governor, is the leader of the opposing section of the Republican party which has bitterly fought the Thompson wing of the party.

Russia's Future Agriculture And Trade

IT is a notable fact that every great Russian reformer has seen that the crux of Russian reform lies in the reform of Russian agriculture. Up to the time of the Revolution, Russian agriculture was practised under conditions in many respects peculiar. Up to the year 1861, when the serfs were liberated, an act that was inspired by a realisation of the fact that the fundamental reform in Russia must be an agrarian reform, the majority of the agricultural population were serfs, attached to the properties of large landowners; but since the emancipation of the serfs the land had become in large measure the property of the peasants, especially in the arable districts. This peasant property, however, was not held individually but was the common property of the village communities or mirs, and subject to redivision amongst the members of the mir according to rules that varied at different places. The meadows were re-divided amongst the members of the mir every year before the grass was cut, so that each family got an equal quantity of hay, but the plough-land was divided by law only once in twelve years. The existence of the mirs operated to some extent to prevent free movement of the population, since a member of a mir lost his rights by prolonged absence, but this fact was in some parts of the country insufficient to counteract a tendency to seek the attractions of the towns, where manufacturing industries were springing up, or of regions where the fertility of the soil made agriculture more profitable than in the region quitted.

These circumstances and others combined to make the peasant extremely conservative, and this was one of the greatest stumbling blocks to agrarian improvement, by whomsoever attempted. This conservative spirit, born very largely of ignorance but contributed to by economic conditions, ruled not merely in the general economics of peasant agriculture, of land ownership and the like, but also in questions of agricultural method. The peasant was loth to forsake the primitive instruments with which the agriculture of his ancestors had been carried on, reluctant to try new tools, and both unwilling and, by reason of cost, unable to avail himself of the machinery of large-scale agriculture.

These conditions faced every agricultural and agrarian reformer right up to the time of the Revolution, and the Soviet Government has been brought up sharp against them. The Soviet Government indeed has acknowledged, by its modified system of collecting contributions from the peasants, that peasant conservatism cannot be overcome by a stroke of the pen, but the realisation of the fact that fundamentally the future of Russia depends on the peasant has made it imperative that agricultural production should be revived in more than its ante-bellum vigor, and with an added intelligence and indeed a greatly increased productivity. Before the War the productivity of Russian agriculture was lower than that of any other European country. The average yield of wheat in European Russia was about 7 quintals per hectare, compared with 13½ in France and 21½ in the United Kingdom. The Russian peasants use no fertilisers. In most districts there is no proper rotation of crops, and it is no uncommon thing for half the land to lie fallow at a time. The sandy soil of East Prussia produces two or three times as much as the rich black soil of South Russia.

Even with a change in the Government of Russia, the development of Russian agriculture is bound to be a matter of slow growth. The Russian peasant is intensely conservative, as we have said, but he is slowly awakening from the deep sleep of the Middle Ages. Millions of peasants during the last seven years have been withdrawn from their primitive village life to serve in the army. As prisoners of war in Germany, vast numbers have come in contact with Western ideas of material progress and the scientific methods of German agriculture. They have handled tools and domestic utensils which they had never seen before, and they have been initiated into the mysteries of agricultural machinery, mechanical power, and electric light. As a result of their varied experiences and the new ideas and new wants implanted by the revolution, the younger generation of Russian peasants has grown dissatisfied with the primitive life and simple traditions of their village communities.

In addition to these subconscious influences, the Red Army has provided facilities for organised education. Every soldier is now taught to read and write, with the result that among the younger men the proportion of illiteracy is comparatively small. Another important factor has been the prohibition of vodka. Even before the Revolution foreign observers had noted the change in the habits and outlook of the peasants resulting from prohibition. They had acquired new wants, and spent their money, when possible, on better clothing, better tools, and better domestic appliances.

These facts all point to the same conclusion—namely, that the effective demand of Russia's vast population for the manufactured goods of Western Europe is likely to be greater than it was before the war. If the new wants can be supplied, partly by private trade and partly by the highly developed organisation of the Russian co-operative societies, their satisfaction will stimulate the increased productivity on which the recovery of Russia and of Central Europe depends. Those countries, we feel, which refuse now to enter competition for the vast trade of Russia, and which restrain their men of business from the present opportunity of making firm friends of, and lasting business connections with, the merchants of Russia, will eventually regret their indecision. The time is now. Germany and England see it.

George Tchitcherin, A Character Study

BY SAMUEL SPEWACK

Genoa, May 20.—President Harding once played a horn in a local brass band. George Tchitcherin, Soviet Commissar of Foreign Affairs, head of the volcanic Bolshevik delegation at Genoa, still plays the flute. Harding has reformed Tchitcherin refuses to. Acute political students fail to see the connection.

Seriously, Tchitcherin's role at the first meeting of Soviet and bourgeois nations—whatever the results or lack of them—has pushed forward a vivid study in human character. Diplomat, student, revolutionist, musician and bachelor—these are but the formal phases of him. Those curious to penetrate below the surface of the man whose importance at Genoa—historically if not actually—was second only to the supple Lloyd George, found much more.

Tchitcherin's russet eyebrows jut out formidably. The large eyes behind the steel-rimmed glasses peer quizzically at you.

After all, Tchitcherin is—Tchitcherin. Fifty years old. Descendant of an aristocrat family in which each generation produced at least one rebel. A Tchitcherin killed Emperor Paul. Contrast with this a Tchicherin who was Governor General of Siberia (Czarist destination for rebels), who conducted lengthy amiable correspondence with Catherine II.

He studied in the University of Petrograd. He learned to play the flute and the piano in early boyhood. His mother, bred in old Russian aristocracy, had frowned upon more manly arts as the Russian aristocrats understood them. She succeeded in making him a finely strung, sensitive youth. He still bears the tenuous thread of his early environment. He is still delicately woven. And he still plays the flute.

Immediately after he had completed his studies he entered the diplomatic service. That is why a top hat—which causes such astonishment to those who do not know him—means little to him. He became Secretary of the Embassy in Berlin. He worked in the Foreign Office in Petrograd. Then, suddenly, he resigned. He had become a revolutionist. He left Russia and went to Berlin. Here he became one of the leading figures in the Russian Social Democratic movement. As such he travelled over the Continent working for the revolution that brought him to the forefront.

War came. Trotzky was in Paris. Tchitcherin went to London. The German Government had deported him as a radical. The British found he corresponded with Trotzky and arrested him as a dangerous alien. He spent several months in jail. Russia revolted. Revolted again. Immediately after the Bolshevist uprising Tchitcherin went to Russia, joined Trotzky and became Commissar of Foreign Affairs.

That's his biography—briefly. But it really does not tell half the story. Of course Tchitcherin's story is not a complete entity. His opponents could dismiss him as an amiable fanatic. They could say harsher things. But this is not a judgment of him. It is a photograph—of necessity a blurred photograph. Take Tchitcherin at the opening session of the conference. Hearing fabulous stories of Russia's propaganda system, one could picture Tchitcherin fixing his eye upon the correspondents and reciting Russia's plea to them alone. Yet Tchitcherin turned his back upon the press of the world. He rose in the big auditorium of the St. George Palace, held his manuscript in his long white hands and read it in the quavering, squeaking voice so rapidly one could but catch one word of three. He read it first in French. Then he read it in English—even more rapidly. He sat down. He was finished.

But if Tchitcherin seems a figure apart in public, he is not in the intimacy of his study. I met him in Rapallo, where the Bolsheviki made their headquarters—the luxurious Hotel Imperial that fronts the blue expanse of sea and soft curves of olive groves. Later I talked to him at length on numerous occasions in his study at the Hotel Genoa—where the setting was one of documents and books.

You like him, laugh with him—as you do not with Maxim Litvinoff, for example. Litvinoff is impersonal. Tchitcherin draws you out of yourself. He knows your newspaper, the name of your Government officials. Rapidly he establishes contacts with you. He is well informed on the currents of politics and affairs. He can talk to you of books or music.

He has not the persuasive eloquence of Lloyd George. That shrewd tactician can address a group of veteran correspondents and convince these cynics the fate of the conference rests upon them. He did it the night of the British-American correspondents' dinner here. The charm wore off the next day—but the feat is concededly remarkable.

Tchitcherin could not do this. He has not the grasp of human weaknesses and vanity. To him a fact is a fact. It should carry weight. Alone with you, he can turn this way and that—adapt himself. In public he is—Tchitcherin.

Essentially he is a worker. He works at nights, sleeps in the morning. At midnight Tchitcherin begins the day's grind. At 5 in the morning, when New York's milk wagons are rattling through the street, Tchitcherin is still relentlessly at it.

Eight in the morning finds him—in normal times—asleep. He rises early in the afternoon. It is then he turns to the flute for rest. He plays it will, and the piano too. At 4 or 5 he resumes work. Late in the evening he usually dozes for several hours, and then at midnight begins work anew.

China's Jade Now Comes From Burma

Although jade usually is associated with China, and this country is more or less looked upon by the layman as the sole producer of it, considerable quantities of green jade are imported into China from Burma and white jade is brought from Turkestan.

The term jade is applied to two finds of hard stone—nephrite and jadeite. The nephrito, a silicate of calcium and magnesium, varies in color according to the amount of iron it contains, being white, blue, green, yellow, red and black. The jadeite, a silicate of aluminum and sodium, is more vivid and translucent than the nephrite.

The first jade mines known in China were in Shensi and Honan, but later discoveries were made in Hunan and Kansu. After the eleventh century China's supply was exhausted, and since then most of the stone used had been imported from Burma and Turkestan. There are also rich mines in New Zealand.

Canton, Peking, Soochow and Shanghai are the largest producers of carved jade, with Canton far in the lead. Peking ranks second. Chinese dealers and carvers generally refuse to handle more than one color of jade. Those in Peking, Soochow and Shanghai confine themselves almost exclusively to the white, which is used in making bracelets for men, belt buckles, vases, incense burners, and other large objects. Canton has been for centuries the center of the green jade industry and sets the styles for ornaments made from it.

There are no jade manufacturers in Canton in the real sense of the word. Any one may purchase the stone and send it to contractors to be cut by skilled workmen. The contractor owns the shop and the tools, solicits orders, and hires the jade workers, paying the latter by the piece and providing them with food and lodging. The contractor's payment usually is divided so that he receives 60 percent and the workmen 40 percent.

There are about 10,000 workmen engaged in the jade industry in Canton. They are organised into four trade groups, or unions, made up of cutters, bracelet makers, plain carvers and ornate carvers. Years of experience have produced highly specialised workers in the last group, who receive about $1 a day. Members of the other groups get 40 cents a day.

The green jade importing business in Canton is handled by seven Cantonese firms, which buy direct from Burma. Members of these firms are stationed in Burma during the buying season in May when the stone is quarried. Once a year, usually at the beginning, the jade market is open to sell the imported stone, at which time the year's supply is to be sold. On the day before the sale the stone to be offered is exhibited, each piece bearing a number and cut so that the interior color is exposed. Prospective customers visit the exhibitions and make notes of the pieces they desire to purchase.

Secret bids are used in the sale. The auctioneer stands in the middle of the floor wearing a coat of extra long and wide sleeves. When the number of the piece to be sold is announced the buyers rush to the auctioneer, grasp his hand under the sleeve and communicate their bids by means of grips, a method common everywhere in China. The auctioneers have remarkable memories, taking bids from two buyers at the same time and remembering all bids and bidders. Since he declares a piece sold as soon as a sufficiently high bid has been made there is a scramble when a particularly fine piece is announced. However, the bid accepted by the auctioneer is subject to the approval of the importing house, which may order the piece resold.

PEITAIHO CONDITIONS NORMAL

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS,

Dear Sir.—Having noticed some comments in the paper regarding conditions in North China and at Peitaiho, which might influence people against going to that resort, I thought I would send you a notice which you may put in your paper. I returned from Peitaiho yesterday and made careful investigation, so the following notice may help to reassure people as to conditions there. Sincerely yours.

J. H. Blackstone.

Fearing that some of the news items of late might cause some persons to hesitate in regard to visiting North China, or to spend their summer at Peitaiho, since I have just returned from Peitaiho yesterday I would like to let the public know that conditions in that regions have again resumed normal state.

The last military troop train was run from Tientsin to Shanhaikwan on last Sunday, June 18, and I went out on that train. Regular passenger service between Tientsin and Shanhaikwan was begun on Tuesday, June 20, and trains were run throughout this past week every other day with the expectancy that daily service would be begun on Monday, June 26, and the full service including night train be reinstated a few days later, so that transportation will be sufficient for all who wish to come to Peitaiho.

The condition of the crops, including vegetable gardens around Peitaiho are better this year than for several years past, so that provision for fresh vegetables etc. will be abundant and at normal prices. The fruit crop is also good.

The regular provision stores have reopened, so that visitors need have no fear about the matter of provisioning. The train service from Peitaiho to the beach has also been reinstated.

As to the general situation, the entire army of Chang Tso-lin evacuated from Shanhaikwan on Wednesday, June 21, so that no Fengtien troops are anywhere in the vicinity of Peitaiho. The rumors of soldiers occupying Peitaiho were untrue, as none of the Fengtien troops visited Peitaiho whatsoever, and not a single house was damaged in any way.

People are now flocking to Peitaiho both by steamer and trains, and the season promises to be full up. No one need have any fears whatsoever in regard to the conditions from this time on. Coal is being shipped in as rapidly as possible and already some freight trains have been run to Peitaiho.

There are still a very few houses unrented, information about which may be had through Mr. Eastham. (Manager, Peitaiho Association, Peitaiho).

The temperature at Peitaiho was cool and delightful and the ocean already warm. Come on in—the water's fine.

Bukit Toh Alang Rubber Estates, Ltd.

Mr. A. J. Welch presided, supported by Mr. Hugo Reiss (Director) and Mr. C. J. L. Swart, Secretary. Mr. Welch said:

Gentlemen,

Owing to the absence on leave of our Chairman, Mr. N. G. Maitland, I have been asked to preside at this meeting in his stead.

The report and accounts have been in your hands for some days and, with your permission, I propose to follow the usual custom and take them as read.

As you are aware this company owns two estates, Bukit Toh Alang, the original one, and Kuala Kettil, an extension about 20 miles distant, acquired in 1917.

Bukit Toh Alang is the only one that is producing at the moment and I will deal with its affairs first.

The output of prepared rubber for the year fell short of the estimate by 15,746 lbs., the reason being that the estimated output of 325,000 lbs. included scrap grades but as Bukit Toh Alang has no machinery for treating this class of rubber it is dependent upon Lunas Estate, the only one available in the neighborhood, to manufacture the lower grades. Lunas Estate stopped manufacture for a period and only resumed work in January, 1922, so that for 9 months the lower grades could not be treated. The manager, however, did not lose this rubber, but collected 15,760 lbs. of untreated scrap and sold it locally. For statistical purposes, this quantity is not included in the year's output; if it had been then the estimate would have been attained.

The estate cost of production shows the remarkable reduction of no less than 5 pence per pound when compared with the cost last year; this result has only been achieved by the exercise of the most stringent economy, compatible with efficiency, and I feel we cannot too highly compliment Mr. Jensen, our manager on the success of his efforts.

The factory is a compact, but only semi-permanent building, equipped with hand machinery, which is reported to be in fair condition. In order to handle the increased crop, it was necessary to make certain extensions during the year at a cost of $304.68, and since the report was issued we have been advised that some further enlargements which are estimated to cost $630 will have to be made to the smoke house and coagulating tanks this year. You may say, why spend this money when there is a possibility of enforced restriction of output in the near future?

Gentlemen, the sooner that day comes the better pleased I shall be, but, in the meantime, burdened as the company is with the necessity of obtaining funds for the upkeep of Kuala Kettil division we simply cannot afford to restrict, much as we should like to, and if the capacity of our factory is not made adequate to deal with our daily output, the value of the rubber lost would speedily amount to a much larger sum than the cost of the proposed extensions.

The estate itself is reported to be all in good order as regards weeding, the average cost of this work for the year over the whole planted area being 33 cents per acre per month as compared with $1.36 per acre per month last year.

The estate is popular with labor, both Malay and Tamil, the force at the end of the year consisting of 139 Tamils and 117 Malays as compared with 128 Tamils and 125 Malays at the commencement. No recruiting from India was done but the estate maintains a good connection with that country. The manager therefore does not anticipate any scarcity of labor in the future, although should the demand for labor increase during the current year it is probable that wages will have to be raised.

Turning now to Kuala Kettil division the expenditure during the year amounted to $31,356.80 as compared with 45,796.63 last year and the estimated expenditure for the coming year is $9,420. This large decrease in the estimated cost of upkeep is accounted for by the fact that the whole planted area is now practically free from lallang and a continuous weeding program ensuing that the cleared area shall remain so has been instituted.

The report gives you all the necessary particulars about the year's working, and as I have a fair amount to say about this property I shall not weary you by going over the ground again.

Some weeks ago the secretaries received a letter from certain shareholders in which they expressed the opinion that on account of the small area under rubber the best interests of the company would be served by selling Kuala Kettil as soon as possible at a reasonable price. Your directors, gentlemen, have been of the same mind for some considerable time past and as long ago as September, 1921 wrote to the Penang agents instructing them to endeavor to obtain an offer for this property but although they have kept the matter constantly before them up to the present time no probable purchaser has been forthcoming.

For the benefit of those of you who were not shareholders in 1917 it will perhaps not be amiss if I give you a short history of this property and the reasons that prompted the then directors to acquire it.

At some time during 1916 the directors of the company apparently began to be perturbed by two factors, firstly the comparatively high capital cost, nearly Taels 500 per acre, of the original estate and secondly the very unsatisfactory yield per acre, not more than 250 lbs. per annum. They therefore looked around for a suitable area that might be acquired cheaply with the idea that, when planted up, the capital cost per planted acre would be considerably reduced and if, as then seemed probable, it was found impossible to increase the output per acre from Bukit, then the new estate could be looked to increase the output:

After examining several propositions put before them, the board, in April 1917, finally decided to purchase for $8,849 the 1,799 acres that form the present Kuala Kettil division.

The intention at that time was to open up and plant this area in yearly instalments of 250 acres the cost of doing which was to be defrayed by an issue of Taels 150,000 of 7 percent convertible debentures. This proposal was put before shareholders at the seventh annual meeting held on July 24, 1917 and rejected in favor of the alternative scheme of gradually developing up to 1,000 acres out of the profits of Bukit Toh Alang proper.

The position at present is that we have 346 acres planted with rubber, the bulk of which should be ready for tapping in 1923. The expenditure on this area, including the cost of the land and the buildings has been Taels 70,268.57 or say Taels 203 per planted acre, which is not out of the way.

The conditions, however, that influenced the directors five years ago no longer pertain, the long continued slump in rubber has precluded any further extensions being undertaken and the fear that Bukit Toh Alang would never be a satisfactory yielder has been dispelled, and for these reasons your present directors have been and still are looking about for a likely purchaser at a reasonable price.

Turning now to the accounts, before making any comments, I must point out to you two printer's errors that appear in the balance sheet. First, under the heading of wells and water supply the expenditure for the year under review should be Taels 301.33 not Taels 310.33 as shown and secondly the value of the rubber stock should be Taels 6,435.65 or one tael less than the figure as printed.

From the profit and loss account you will see that the original estate, Bukit Toh Alang, earned a profit of Taels 6,662.92 and if we deduct from this the sum spent on the immature area, that is Taels 4,448.97 and the other capital expenditure amounting to Taels 678.45 there still remains a surplus of Taels 1,535.50 or in other words the old estate earned sufficient to cover all its own expenditure as well as the whole of the Shanghai expenses. This, gentlemen, is a very satisfactory result considering the extremely difficult and depressing conditions that have prevailed, and had it not been for the fact that we had to pay out Taels 20,284.48 for buildings on and the upkeep of Kuala Kettil the financial position of the company would actually have improved during the year, instead of being as it is Taels 18,748.98 worse than at the same time last year.

At the commencement of the year the cash liabilities exceeded the liquid assets by Taels 7,364.22 so that at the end of the year the excess of cash liabilities amounted to Taels 26,113.20.

This is not a very heavy indebtedness amounting, as it does, to only about Taels 26 per planted acre of the old estate, but the seriousness of the situation lies in the fact that we are rapidly nearing the limit of the financial accommodation that we have been able to arrange for and unless the price of rubber improves in the near future or we can dispose of Kuala Kettil shortly it will be extremely difficult to obtain further funds with which to carry on.

In conclusion, gentlemen, I am sure you will join with your directors in giving a very hearty vote of thanks to the manager, Mr. Jensen, his assistant Mr. Noble and to the Penang agents for the extremely able manner in which they have conducted the affairs of the two estates throughout a most anxious and trying period. You will probably better appreciate the tremendous amount of hard work that the manager and his assistant must have put in when I point out to you that in addition to the routine office work and attending to manufacture, etc., they have had to supervise between them 1,361 acres of planted rubber or an average of more than one square mile each.

That is all I have to say, gentlemen, but before formally proposing the adoption of the report and accounts I shall be pleased to answer to the best of my ability any questions you may wish to ask.

The following resolutions were adopted:

That the directors' report and statement of accounts for the year ended March 31, 1922, as presented, and the disposal of the balance at credit of profit and loss account as recommended be adopted.

That Mr. N. G. Maitland be re-elected a director of the company.

That Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews be re-elected auditors to the company for the ensuing year.

Fengtien Governor Likely To Resign

(Eastern News Agency)

Mukden, June 25.—Mr. Wang Yung-chiang, Acting Civil Governor of Fengtien, has of late impaired his health on account of the situation and is now in the Red Cross Hospital here. In this connection, official circles in Mukden are of opinion that this is a sign that Mr. Wang has an intention of resigning his office and have already begun to look for a competent successor.

While military men take the view that General Chang Yang-yu, Chief of the General Staff of the Fengtien troops, is a most competent candidate, civil officials are recommending Mr. Shih Chi-chang, ex-Chief of the Bureau of Political Affairs of Heilungkiang, and Yu Chung-han.

Sees Lu As Great Unification Menace

(Eastern News Agency)

Hankow, June 25.—General Sun Chuan-fang, Commander of the Upper Yangtze, has addressed a secret telegram to General Hsiao Yao-nan, Tuchun of Hupeh, stating that though Chang Tso-lin of the North and Dr. Sun Yat-sen of the South have both been put to flight, the fact that Lu Yung-hsiang of Chekiang alone is taking an independent attitude is detrimental to the peace and unification of the country.

General Sun urges Tuchun Hsiao to request Tsao Kun and Wu Pei-fu to deal with General Lu Yung-hsiang and bring him into line by force if necessary.

Tung Kang Would Boost Cigarette Tax

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, June 24.—Mr. Tung Kang, Minister of Finance, has made a proposal to the President for raising the cigarette dues to 30 percent and for applying the total revenue thus raised to educational expenses.

It is said that after the increase of the cigarette dues, an annual income to the amount of $16,000,000 will be realised.

NOTICE

The I.S.S. will make for a more earnest endeavour on the part of the public to economize, because:

IT IS BUILT upon elementary principle of the budget as an ECONOMIC ADJUNCT.

IT RECOGNIZES the phychology underlying the SAVING IMPULSE.

IT OFFERS a new opportunity in a new familiar field to those whose ignorance of finance makes them timid venturers in UNTRIED TERRITORY.

KINGMAN & BROS.
How to Preserve the Teeth

In order to keep the teeth in a good condition scientific precaution must be taken. Through negligence, decay and numerous other affections such as tooth-ache, dental periostitis, esteo-periostitis, necrosis of the jaw, etc., may arise. During the process of ingestion, there are settled on the teeth some deposits of mineral and organic matters, called tartar, which possesses a morbid power of pressing the gum. As an inevitable result of the presence of this tartar, the teeth will become elongated and movable and will, by degrees, absorb away the enamel, leading ultimately to the decay and degeneration of the teeth. The tartar is so hard and resistant to the process of brushing that it cannot be scraped off except with dental instruments specially devised for that purpose.
Dr. KINGMAN offers to the public his service for preserving their teeth at an annual subscription Fee of $10.00 per head to be paid in advance.
The work to be done by Dr KINGMAN to the subscribers consist in:—
(1) Cleaning of the teeth quarterly.
(2) Filling with gold platinum alloy only, when the teeth present holes.
(3) Inspecting the teeth at any time at the desire of the subscribers.

Churchman Burned To Death In France

(Reuter's Service)
Paris, June 26.—It is reported from Avesnes that the Archbishop of Cambrai's motorcar overturned in the Forest of Mormal and caught fire. The Vicar-General was burnt to ashes and the Archbishop and chauffeur were seriously burned.

Hankow Rice Prices Soaring

(Independent News Service)
Hankow, June 24.—The rice crisis is bringing great distress upon the Chinese people in Hankow who are startled at the alarming advance of rice to the highest figure in its history—20,000 cash a picul.
The unprecedented rise is due entirely to the manipulations of profiteers, most prominent among whom are certain owners of rice mills of Hankow, who have formed a combine capable of dictating prices in local market.
